An English Letter to an English Secessionist.

We copy the larger portion of the letter in the Liverpool Post to Mr Spence, referred to in the note published yesterday from Mr Cooper Spence, we believe, is a member of the firm of Richardson, Spence & Co., of Liverpool, and his hypocritical advocacy of the rebel cause, and defence of slaveholding is sufficiently accounted for by the fact that he is a financial agent of the confederate government, and undoubtedly making a colossal fortune out of the rebellion Among the intercepted rebel correspondence recently published in Washington papers, we notice a letter from Mr Memminger, rebel Secretary of the Treasury to Mr Mason in Paris, in which he says he has appointed Mr James Spence of Liverpool, a financial agent, and authorized him to negotiate the sale of five million dollars of eight per cent. bonds. This is but one item of the transactions for which Mr Spence is drawing fat commissions There is nothing wonderful in his rebel sympathy

The following is the letter alluded to

To James Spence, Esq

Sir—As one of the many who were alternately shocked and amused by your recent oration in the Clarendon Rooms on behalf of the man-owning rebels of America, I take the liberty to address to you a few observations on that occasion They may be inoperative, in the way of inducing you to take any other course than that which you have chosen to adopt in reference to this foul rebellion, but they may have the intended effect with many persons who are, on your side and that of the rebels, at present, only because they believe, that a gentleman like yourself, and a journal like the Times, must needs be unquestionable authorities on the subject, and do not take the trouble to inquire, reason or reason for themselves And yet, notwithstanding this proviso, I am constrained to believe that you, even you, are, to a great extent, ignorant of the horrors of the system you labour so assiduously to uphold, or the baseness of the cause you plead; because otherwise, I must hold your manhood to be problematical, your Christianity a myth

You avow your political sympathy with the slaveocracy, you declare your conscientious belief that they be, and have, a perfect and a just right to do all that they have done, or are doing, you denounce the invasion of their country as altogether indefensible, and yet you profess, the world, to be as much opposed to slavery and as anx ous for its extinction, as Mr Charles Robertson or any other abolitionist can possibly be You know well, sir, none better than you, that, clogged with such a condemnable lack of moral principle as this institution, the slaveholders would spurn and repudiate your advocacy, were they not aware of its being a hollow pretence with no other object than that of deceiving dust in the eyes of your countrymen

With a simplicity that is nothing less than marvellous, or effrontery without parallel except in the prostituted columns of the Times you assert that slavery "could unquestionably have been abolished by the Southern States years ago," but for the reprobation and agitation of the Abolitionists against it! Whence did you derive this unquestionable fiction? When, where, and how did the Southern States ever manifest a disposition to get rid of slavery since the establishment of the Union? Do you ground your assertion on the past or present conduct of your friends? Do you credit them with the disposition because they have for many years most systematically ostracized not only those who preached, spoke or wrote any opinion hostile to their "institution" but even those who were barely suspected of not being favorable to it? Or is it because their President, Jefferson Davis, in his inaugural address to the rebel Congress, declared slavery to be the very basis of the Confederate Constitution, blasphemously invoking the blessings of Almighty God upon it? or because Vice President Stephens, out vieing his chief in profanity, dared to identify slavery with the Redeemer of mankind, by calling it the corner stone which the builders had rejected? or because members of the Southern Congress, and the most influential organs of Southern opinion, have declared their error hitherto, has lain in speaking of slavery as an evil to be spoken of and got rid of as soon as possible; whereas, according to their present more enlightened opinions, it is an institution of divine ordinance—the proper and providentially appointed condition of all laborers of whatever color or race, which the "clean whites" or "white trash"—that is to say, all persons who have not slaves to work for them—ought to be reduced?

You pretend to know the objects and intentions of the rebels better than they do themselves. You affect to believe—for believe it you do not and cannot, unless, indeed, prejudice or interest has cast its impervious shroud over your understanding—that in the triumph of the rebellion lies the only chance for the extinction of slavery Your remind us that we were once slave owners and slave traders ourselves, and you assume that if, when we became conscious of our "error," as you mildly denominate our grievous sins, the people of Germany had taken upon themselves to lecture us thereanent, we should have incontinently abandoned the course we proposed to take, been driven to the other extreme, and, as I may logically conclude from your premises, remained unwilling in those abominations to the present day, just as your friends now propose to do for ever more

When you paid this gratuitous compliment to your fellow countrymen, you forgot, belike, that remonstrance against anti-slavery as tatics, precisely similar in terms, was made by the Times and the James Spences of other days; that Clarkson, Wilberforce, Broughton, Sturge, Cropper, Egerton, Smith, and the whole gallant band of philanthropists who fought the battle of humanity among us to a successful issue, were denounced as fanatics, poor diaries, incitors to servile insurrection, and hair brained upon whom all the epithets which you, and such as you, may launch against the abolitionists, who labor here or in America.

It was agitation, and agitation alone, that aroused the people of England to a sense of the enormity of the system which, as it now exists in the Confederate States of America reduces four millions of human beings to the condition of beasts of burthen, and denies their possibility to the same degradation for all generations to come!

which judicially defines them to be not "persons," but "things," "chattels," the absolute and unlimited "property" of their owners, to do with them as they please; which denies them any right to their own bodies or souls; which ignores the sanctity of marriage, and only permits man and woman to live together only as long as it suits the pleasure profit or convenience of the owner so to do; which enables the master or mistress to sell, separately, husband and wife, parents and children, just as they deal with their cattle and cattle; which empowers the master, if he please, to ravish the slave wife or slave daughter, before the eyes of the slave husband or slave father and adjudges death to him if he dare to raise his hand against the ruffianly violator, which renders it quite legal for the owner to expose his slave daughter, perhaps his own illegitimate child, while as himself perchance, naked on a public auction table, there to be examined and handled by any beast in human gear blazer, who wants a concubine for himself or another inmate for his brothel which so carries the legitimate heir, of the baronet minded, to sell his own illegitimate brothers and sisters by a slave mother, though they may have been brought up with himself and the highborn superiors in all that ennobles man to honor or woman to love—those to the plantation labor, these to the brothel keeper

It will be vain to allege that this is in any respect an exaggerated picture of Southern slavery. To borrow an oriental phrase of your own, "I know it you don't," that all these atrocities may be committed legally under the system for which your "chivalrous" friends are battling, nay, more, that in order to give them perfect impunity for all that they may be pleased to do with their human "chattels"—say, or why to male prisoners in their presence only—negro testimony against them is inadmissible in the white man's so-called courts of justice

You, sir, shall the hardihood to back the assertion of the Times, that there is nothing in God's Holy Word condemnatory of this atrocious system Then lend your pipe with you, for were you as eager as you could have been were he arbiter your own, to enter upon the loathsome and impious task of showing that Almighty God, who made of one blood all the races of mankind, and commanded them to love each other as brethren, gave at least His tacit assent to to murder, rape, incest, adultery—in short, to every crime which a white man mastercan commit, or unnegro slave or any slave with the slightest taint of negro blood, can suffer That, sir, say what you will, on cooler reflection, is the pith and marrow of your Scriptural argument, a genuine "logical inference" from it, and not one of the shadowy scraps rem which you would fain palm off as deductions from sound reason Satan himself has quoted scripture for his purpose, no wonder, that his example should be followed by the defenders of a truly satanic institution.

The Belfast Journal, as might be expected, defends the resolutions of the secession sympathizers of the Illinois Legislature, and says

We have no retinue expressed a belief that with the great States of the West rests the solution of our troubles, and that they would refuse to follow the Administration in its wild and visionary schemes. The hard winter their patience will be bitterly exhausted upon a near at hand—very near, we should judge by the movement We know by conversation with intelligent gentlemen from that section that the feeling of indignation is intense, and will manifest itself in decided action at no distant day

This seems that the western Copperheads contemplate an armed opposition to the Government, and that this Belfast organ of secession approves that intention Will that paper inform us whether it means fire—if not, what kind of "decided action" it does refer to Out with it, if you mean armed treason, and let the people know it The point requires no argument Yes or no

The New York Herald is running McClellan for the Presidency So is that puke of a Union sheet "down East," misnamed the Republican Journal.—Portland Courier

The Courier is mistaken in thinking this paper misnamed It was christened thirty-four years ago, during the Presidency of Andrew Jackson, whom it supported as a Republican President—and has advocated his principles ever since.—Belfast Journal

Softly, Mr Journal One Andrew Jackson swore "By the Eternal" that he would hang the first (and the last) man who undertook to carry out the doctrine of secession (or nullification) The Journal, on the other hand, if we understand its present "principles" goes for making peace with armed secessionists on the basis of a new compromise

The schooner Hanover, Captain Case, from Boston January 1, for Aux Cayes, was captured January 31st off Anse d'Heinault by a rebel pirate The captain and crew were landed at the same place. The Hanover was a good vessel of 12 tons, built in boston in 1846, and was owned in Provincetown. Her cargo was shipped by Joseph Austin and others of Boston, and was valued at $4600, mostly covered by war risks

—The Confederate steamer Ivanhoe, recently burned in trying to run the blockade, is said by the Hallowell Gazette to be the veritable old "untress which ran on the Kennebec and Boston route twenty-five years ago! Petting a Blockade Runner A letter from the U S steamer Daylight (Capt Warren) off Cape Fear river, (published in the Hallowell Gazette) says

Last Wednesday we ran a large schooner ashore It was so rough we could not board her with our boats, so we anchored and pelted her to pieces We fired about 160 shot and shell a distance of one mile, and though the ship rolled badly from the heavy swell, but her from twenty to twenty-five times We left her a perfect wreck Next day we went up where she was and found her broken to pieces, and her bottom full of shot holes Picked up some of her deck plank and a large piece of her stern She was about 150 tons, a very good one, and deep loaded, probably worth 20,000 In all That makes the sixth vessel we have alone destroyed or captured in eight days

Different The Chinese name of that new "barkentine" at Belfast, "Le Yik" is translated differently by the Journal and the Age of that city One has it the "Everlasting Profit"—the other "The Everlasting Prophet"—We suspect the last reading is correct, although the former is decidedly the most satisfactory name for the ship

His mother is now a resident of Camden, and is a respectable old lady. One of his sisters was the wife of Patterson, the man whom he murdered. His first wife was and is a resident of this city, and has five children by him. On account of his bad conduct she sued for and obtained a divorce from him, and supported herself and children since that time Blake married again, and now has a wife and two children in Camden, where he has resided about eight years. He was in the habit of drinking but not to excess. It is supposed he will put in the defence of insanity. The murder was, however, committed very coolly He came into the sail loft where Patterson was at work, with his gun loaded.

They supposed he was looking for birds, as he frequently came in and shot birds from the loft windows Mr Jacob Day said to him, "Who are you going to shoot, Blake?" Blake replied, "I am not going to shoot you, Jacob" He then immediately stepped round behind Patterson, and spoke to him, calling him by his given name—Freeman—and brought gun to his shoulder to fire Patterson sprang upon his feet and exclaimed, "For God's sake, don't shoot me"—Blake then fired, and Patterson fell dead at his feet, the charge entering Patterson's head He seemed for a few moments to be considerably affected, and said he wished he was in Patterson's place One of Patterson's sons came in, and asked Blake, "Who did you shoot my father?" Blake answered him by putting his arms around the boy and kissing him. As people came in he very coolly walked down to the lower end of the loft, stood up his gun, took out his pipe, and commenced filling it, saying he guessed he would have a smoke

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Exeter, Feb 19, 1863.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

I notice in your paper of to-day a Card signed by George W Snow and seven others, stating that their names were used without their knowledge or consent in a notice for a "Masonic Levee" to be held at Newport on the 22d instant and that they should not attend for reasons which must be obvious to every patriotic brother I deem the following explanation due to Bro Brown, the Landlord of the Shaw House who proposes to give the Levee.

At Newport, a few days since, it was agreed between the undersigned and two or three of the Committee of Arrangements, as named in the notice, together with some well known patriotic and loyal brethren of Markham Lodge that in order to encourage measures be taken to get up a Masonic Levee, at the time and place named in the bill, and that M W G M Drummond and P G M Chase be invited to attend I was requested to get up a form for the notice I did so in part, at the office of my brother in Stetson, and at his suggestion and my own wrote and sent all the names of our worthy brethren which appear in the card of to-day. Im mediately forwarded the paper to Newport to have the names of the Committee of Arrangements from the Lodges inserted, and supposed that Bro Drummond and Chase would be specially invited by some of the brethren at Newport, or by the Committee of Arrangements No hint but the one idea of a fraternal Masonic gathering and greeting entered my mind or heart.

If the use of the names of the respected brethren on the card) without their consent be the wrong complained of, then the most of the responsibility rests upon me, but a want of patriotism on the part of any one whose name appears in the notice of the Levee be the wrong complained of, then I justify that complaint to the fullest extent, to the loyalty in whatever form should be promptly discouraged, rebuked, and fought in the hour of our country's peril But without mens legis I propose to attend the Levee Most fra ternally yours

DAVID BARKER

The Card alluded to was published not complete because the names of the Committee were used without authority and the term "Masonic Levee" taken wholly without right, but because the proprietor of the Shaw House has proved to be in sympathy with persons unfriendly to the Government The brethren who signed said Card hope it to be the duty of all loyal citizens to discountenance all shades of disloyalty, and refuse to encourage treason to any man even though he be a brother who is not an outspoken friend of his country, in this her hour of peril

A large number of the members of Rising Virtue St Andrews and Benevolent Lodges have enlisted to fight the enemies of their country and we who remain must not give aid and encouragement to enemies at home

The Card was not issued without many regrets that the necessity should exist, but in doing it the Committee state the fullest approval of Grand Master Drummond the concurrence of Past Grand Master Chase the consciousness that they have done nothing but their simple duty and the belief that the Fraternity generally will approve the course taken by them

State Temperance Convention.

Under the auspices of the Maine Temperance Alliance, the friends of Temperance throughout the State are cordially invited to meet in convention at Augusta on Wednesday, 25th inst., at ten o'clock in the forenoon

The object of the meeting is generally to consider the subject of Temperance as it affects the moral well being of the State, but especially to examine the present liquor Law in its application to the sale of Intoxicating Drinks, in order to see if the law is sufficiently up to the description of intoxicating liquors, and also whether it may not be made more effectual in its object to overthrow the grog-shops—the direful social evil and the most antagonized curse in the community

It is believed that the present Legislature is mainly composed of tried friends of humanity and that as individuals they will heartily encourage this movement in its incipient stages and finally crown it as a body by such wise and efficient legislative action as will cause a thrill of joy in all portions of the State

Let there be, then, a large gathering at the Capital, and let each one manfully determined to act well his part in bring understood that all friends of Temperance, male and female of whatever society or order, or whether or not belonging to any organization are earnestly invited to be present—Whoever has a mind to work is welcome provided he lets the same overthrow of the monster evil of Intemperance.

By order of the Executive Committee of the Maine Temperance Alliance

"Masonic Levee" at Newport.

We notice with surprise that our names with others, are attached to an Advertisement for a "Masonic Levee" at the Shaw House on the anniversary of Washington's Birth Day The names are used without our authority, and from reasons which must be obvious to every patriotic brother we shall not attend

We are requested by M W Grand Master Drummond, and authorized by Past Grand Master Chase to state that their names were used without authority, and that they will not be present at said Levee
